

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system for detecting the level of liquid in a tank includes a sensor part provided to the tank and for sensing a position of the liquid level in accordance with 5 displacement of a float, and a sensor casing arranged in the tank to be isolated from liquid and for accommodating the sensor part.